What About the Windows?
The windows in the 1930s were usually made of wood. They were not built to be replaced or repaired in the field. Just the fact of the windows in the 1930s was a sign of the times.

This floor plan diagram illustrates a multi-level interior space. At the top is a rectangular area labeled "Roof Deck". Below it is a large, empty rectangular area labeled "Open To Below". A horizontal line separates this area from the "Bedroom" below. The "Bedroom" contains a bathroom labeled "Bath" in the bottom-left corner, which includes a bathtub, toilet, and sink. In the bottom-center, a circular staircase labeled "Dn" leads down. To the right of the stairs is another area labeled "Open To Below". A door is located on the right wall of the bedroom area.

This is a black and white floor plan diagram. At the top is a horizontal line representing a boundary, with a thick black L-shaped line on the left and a thick black rectangle in the center. Below this is the 'Roof Deck'. A horizontal line separates the Roof Deck from a large rectangular area labeled 'Open To Below'. A horizontal line further down separates this area from a 'Bedroom'. In the bottom left corner is a 'Bath' containing a bathtub, toilet, and sink. To the right of the bath is a circular staircase labeled 'Dn' (down) with a semi-circular landing area labeled 'Open To Below'. A door is shown on the right side of the plan, leading out of the building.
